This agreement is intended to make it easier for students to take online courses offered by postsecondary institutions based in another state.

To date, 49 states (excluding California), the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and the US Virgin Islands have membership in NC-SARA.

Missouri Western State University is in compliance with all member states to offer undergraduate online degree completion programs and graduate online programs. For more information, visit https://www.nc-sara.org (https://www.nc-sara.org/).

Complaints/Resolutions for Online Programs

One of NC-SARA membership requirements is for institutions of higher learning to provide a student complaint resolution process for online programs that is in addition to the university process. Below is information about all processes.

Students with a complaint should first exhaust Missouri Western State University's processes (https://www.missouriwestern.edu/feedback/). If unsuccessful, students can file a complaint with the Missouri Department of Higher Education. Visit the MDHE's complaint policy and instructions about how to file a formal complaint (https://dhe.mo.gov/documents/POLICYONCOMPLAINTRESOLUTION-reviseddraft.pdf).

Additionally, Missouri Western State University's accrediting agency, the Higher Learning Commission, accepts complaints about institutions. Visit their website (https://www.hlcommission.org/Student-Resources/complaints.html) for instructions to file a formal complaint. The commission has established a clear distinction between individual grievances and complaints that appear to involve broad institutional practices. When a complaint raises issues regarding the institution's ongoing ability to meet the HLC's Criteria of Accreditation, the commission forwards the complaint to the institution and requests a formal response.

Students enrolled in an online program may also file a complaint with NC SARA. Although students may choose to work through their own state's SARA office for complaint resolution, the SARA office of the state where the provider is located is responsible for staffing the investigation and complaint resolution as needed.
