The Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) program options are designed to meet needs of the following professionals:

- Current and future educators, who want to effectively teach English in a wide variety of settings, including: PreK-12 diverse classrooms, adult language programs, businesses, community colleges, and international schools
- Speech/language pathologists and school psychologists, who desire additional information to assist them to better distinguish language differences from language delay and language impairment
- School administrators, who are interested in creating or improving English as a Second Language programs in their school or district
- Current or future educational policy makers, who wish to enhance their understanding of the unique needs of the English learner and the most up-to-date research in second language acquisition

The need for knowledgeable and effective teachers of English to speakers of other languages (TESOL) is growing, both nationally and internationally. In addition to learning how to advocate for effective and responsive education for English learners from diverse communities, graduate students should gain the following from coursework in the TESOL programs:

- A deep understanding of the challenges faced by English learners
- Specific skills and knowledge needed to successfully teach English learners
- Experience teaching and interacting with linguistically and culturally diverse communities
- Training in analytical and critical thinking methods
- Professional licensure (for the State of Missouri and reciprocal licensure states) in TESOL education (optional)
